

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An apparatus and method is disclosed useful for folding materials, particularly fabrics that are fragile such as medical gauze. The apparatus in its simplest embodiment comprises a roller and a disk which is in communication with the roller. In operation, the material to be folded first is drawn between the roller and disk and then drawn against the disk to form a fold.